ABSTRACT

To qualify for inclusion in this listing, a building must have been constructed with two or more compatible building subsystems, one of which is structure. It is estimated that at least 400 schools that satisfy this definition have been constructed in the U. S. and Canada, about one quarter of which appear in this listing. Beginning with this edition, the listing is to be produced by computer from the information stored in BSIC's Systems Buildings Data Bank. With the exception of Canadian schools, the schools are listed by their U. S. Postal Service Zip Codes. Canadian schools have been assigned arbitrary "area numbers" to keep them all together and to keep all schools in the same area together. The information on each school includes (1) architects, (2) date completed, (3) building cost, and (4) building area. On some projects, a set of initials identifies the larger systems project of which the listed project was a part. All data is provided to BSIC by the architects or the owners of the listed buildings. INTRODUCTION TO THE FIFTH EDITION

Some changes in both the format of presentation and the method of preparation of this listing have been made since the edition of July 22, 1970. BSIC hopes that these changes will result in a more useful document.

Criteria for Inclusion. To qualify for inclusion in this listing, a building must fulfill the BSIC definition of a constructed with two or more compatible building subsystems, one of which is structure. It is estimated that at least 400 schools which satisfy this definition have been constructed in the U.S. and Canada, about one quarter of which are in this listing.

New Method of Preparation. Beginning with this edition, this listing will be produced by computer from the information stored in BSIC's Systems Buildings Data Bank. Further information on this data bank can be found in the June 1972 issue of the BSIC Newsletter. As only those buildings about which BSIC has sufficient information to enter in the data bank appear in this edition, the listing contains 125 construction projects as opposed to 215 identified in the last previous edition.

BSIC is entering projects in the data bank as quickly as information can be obtained on them. If you know of a project not on the list which fulfills the systems building definition, please notify BSIC/EFL, 3000 Sand Hill Road, Menlo Park, California 94025.

About the Listings. The listings of schools are in order of their U.S. Postal Service Zip Codes. An exception to this rule are Canadian schools, which appear near the start of the listing. BSIC has assigned them arbitrary "area numbers" in place of zip codes to (a) keep all Canadian schools together; and (b) keep all schools in the same area together.

With the exception of a few items, the information on each school is self-explanatory. The acronym, or set of initials, which appears at the end of the first, or starred, line of information of some projects identifies the larger systems project of which the listed project was a part.

"Building cost" includes all work to a line five feet outside the building perimeter and does not include land costs, other site work, utilities or fees. "Building area" is typically computed by the AIA method. All data is provided to BSIC by the architects or owners of the listed buildings and BSIC cannot assume responsibility for its accuracy.

To Obtain Further Information. Further information on the buildings or architectural firms in the listing may be obtained by writing to BSIC. For school site visits, please contact the principal of the school or superintendent of the district.
